Vaad Report

Dr. Eli Rabin

PRESIDENT OTTAWA VAAD HA'IR
JEWISH COMMUNITY COUNCIL

UNITED JEWISH APPEAL

Last week we just read in the Torah the Sedrah "Re'eh" (Deuteronomy). Within that Sedrah there are many commandments dealing with the concept of "sharing with others". Very clearly the Mitzvah of tithing (Ch. 14:22-29), and the Mitzvah of contributing for the needy (Ch. 15:7-8) have, for us, as Jews played very central roles in guiding our interpersonal relationships. Jewish communities are respected and admired worldwide for their adherence to those principles enunciated in the Torah and for the strong commitment that the communities have toward the disadvantaged in their midst. We are instructed "that every man shall give as he is able, according to the blessing of the Lord thy G-d which He hath given thee" (Ch. 16:17). It is no accident that Jewish communities look after "their own"; nor, is it an accident that Jewish communities ensure that the needy, the disadvantaged, the deprived, and the unfortunate find succour and support within the Jewish milieu. To help fulfill the Mitzvahs, within the context of our modern society, Jewish communities organize major fund-raising drives in order to acquire the necessary material resources. We in Ottawa are no different. We actually are quite fortunate, since so many committed volunteers help our professional staff approach our community at-large in the fund-raising so vital to our community.

Last edition of the Ottawa Jewish Bulletin highlighted the "three Chairpeople" (Stephen Greenberg, Vera Klein and Lionel Shinder) of our UJA Campaign. They have assumed key leadership positions in the United Jewish Appeal of Ottawa and as a community we are indebted to them for their sacrifices, their energy and their devotion to a key activity within our community. They have organized a group of over 30 volunteers into the "Campaign Cabinet" and in the days to come you will be introduced to the members of the "Cabinet" and to the numerous volunteer-canvassers of the campaign. Together, with very capable professionals, this very important group of people will be calling on the community to fulfill the Mitzvahs to which I have alluded above.

In general the United Jewish Appeal of Ottawa is the annual centralized fund-raising activity of the community. The funds generated by this appeal play a major role in the support of Social Services within Israel and in the support of local needs within our community. Locally most of the funds will be spent on Jewish Education and Social Services. Without the generation of sufficient resources, services to the elderly, to the needy, to the disadvantaged, and grants to educational institutions would have to be sharply curtailed. The success of the UJA is absolutely vital to the successful operation of our community agencies. Fortunately, many people are very generous to our community. Alas, there are individuals who for some reason or another are unwilling to participate in the campaign process; there are even those who use community facilities but for some unexplained reason, are unwilling to share in the maintenance and operation of those facilities. I urge everyone in the community to help make the UJA Campaign a success.

COMMUNITY RELATIONS

Elsewhere in the Bulletin is a reprint of an article by Professor Frederick Krantz. The article deals with the attempts to universalize, to Christianize and to trivialize the Holocaust. Sad but true, Poland's Roman Catholic Church recently announced that it would not honour an agreement to move a group of Carmelite nuns from the site of the Auschwitz extermination camp. A short while ago B'nai Brith cancelled a scheduled meeting with the Pope because of a failure of the Roman Catholic Church to deal effectively with this problem. This community will support efforts by national Jewish organizations to protest the distortions of our history.

THE CANADIAN JEWISH CONGRESS

On August 8th, the Officers of the CJC met in Montreal to discuss issues facing the National Jewish Community. Mr. Les Scheininger, (president of CJC) reported on the recent meeting in Israel between a delegation from the CJC and Israeli government officials. Much of the discussions centred around the "intifada" and the Israeli government's peace plan. Mr. Shamir urged the Canadian delegation to pressure the Canadian government to take a less negative stance towards Israel both in its relationships with the PLO and in its relationships with the PLO and in its voting patterns at the United Nations.

Discussions ensued with regard to the Jewish Community's approach to the Canadian government on behalf of Israel. All agreed that the past 19 months have been very difficult for those organizations who have laboured very hard to represent Israel to the Canadian government. The Canada-Israel Committee requires very great support from the Canadian Jewish Community and in particular from the major sponsoring national organizations such as the Canadian Jewish Congress, B'nai Brith, and the Canadian Zionist Federation.

Mr. Joseph Wilder, Chairman of the Community relations Committee of the CJC reported that the person responsible for the vandalism against the Synagogue in Toronto had been apprehended. A very well organized number of meetings had been held by both the Jewish and non-Jewish community groups to deal with the outbreak of the anti-Semitic attacks and with the help of the people and a substantial reward the suspect was finally caught.

The Canadian Jewish Congress has sharply criticized the Canadian Conference of Catholic Bishops for adopting "an inherently biased and one-sided position" with regard to Israel as it deals with the Arab-Israeli conflict. The president of the CJC drew attention to the fact that while Israel is singled out for special criticism by the Conference of Bishops there is no mention of the oppression of Jews of Syria, and that the Vatican continues to refuse to extend diplomatic recognition to the State of Israel.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETING OF AUGUST 9, 1989

The program for the allocations of funds for the 1989-1990 year was presented to the Executive Committee by Mr. Sam Wex (Chairman of Planning, Priorities and Budgeting). Approval by the committee was obtained and will be presented to the Board of Trustees on September 27.

APPOINTMENTS

Mr. Lawrence Greenberg presented the names of the new Officers of the Jewish Community Campus:

Lawrence Greenberg — Immediate Past President
Arnon Vered — President (Member of Executive Committee)
Margaret Kardash — Vice-President
Lawrence Weinstein — Treasurer
Elissa Lief-Resnick — Secretary

Neil Silvert heading UJA Campaign Services

Dr. Eli Rabin, president of the Jewish Community Council has announced the appointment of Neil Silvert as director of campaign services.

Mr. Silvert assumed the position effective August 1, 1989. Silvert comes to Ottawa from Winnipeg where he served as director of Combined Jewish Appeal from 1987-89.

As part of his training in the Practicum, a course leading to a career in Jewish communal service, Silvert was sent to Hamilton. Following his graduation, he was hired by the Hamilton Jewish Federation as the director of that city's United Jewish Appeal.

Prior to entering Jewish communal service, Silvert spent eight years in the manufacturing business.

Neil Silvert is married to Miriam, a special ed. teacher and professional storyteller.

Bulletin Taken To Task For Oversight

The Jewish War Veterans of Ottawa in a relaxed moment prior to President Herzog's arrival at the National War Memorial.

Dear Editor:

I am sure that it must be difficult to please everyone with coverage of a visit by a dignitary of the stature of the president of Israel. Someone is bound to feel neglected.

Nevertheless, it has been suggested to me that with all the photographic coverage on the visit by President Chaim Herzog, (your issue dated July 28, 1989 on pages 13 and 16), the contribution of the Jewish War Veterans of Ottawa was omitted when they formed the honor guard at the wreath-laying ceremony at the National War Memorial. I am sure that the large crowd present on that occasion enjoyed the sight of the group in their blazers and decorations, and their inspection by the President, who greeted each veteran individually with a warm handshake and a kind word.

Should you wish to correct the omission I can advise you that the group was composed of four Montreal Jewish war veterans, who were invited to form the colour party, one officer cadet and 38 Ottawa Jewish war veterans. The names of the Ottawa delegation are listed below: Irving Aaron, Leo Abrams, Matt Ages, Sam Ages, Norman Beck, Earl Butovsky, Lawrence Cowan, Nat Edelstein, Louis Fine, Jack Fogel, Thea Ginsberg, Elliot Gluck, Mel Goldberg, Issie Greenberg, Bill Kahansky, Ben Karp, Daniel Keen, Morris Konik, Percy Levine, Nat Levitin, Max Lobel, Joe Loomer, Hy Maser, Norm Maser, Pacl Miller, Merv Mirsky, Dave Molot, Juair Monson, Lyon Pearlman, Sam Petegorsky, Phil Pinkus, Norman Poteshin, Sam Shainbaum, Laurence Sugarman, Archie Taller, Morton Taller, Norman Taller, George Wolfe, Ted Wolfe.

N. Levitin, DFC, CD

Ed. note: The Bulletin apologizes for the oversight and thanks you for bringing it to our attention. As those who were in attendance can attest — and borne out by your photograph — the Jewish War Veterans of Ottawa formed a most impressive group on that memorable day in June.

BB memorabilia sought by ntl. archives head

During the past year the National Archives of Canada engaged full-time archivist, Edward Atkinson to serve the historical, archival needs of B'nai Brith Canada.

B'nai Brith National President Moishe Smith has appointed Herman Roodman as National Archives B'nai Brith chairman.

In this capacity, Mr. Roodman is seeking to obtain from lodge officers and members, historical records and documents in order to enhance the present collection of material and memorabilia.

Some suggested items for the B'nai Brith collection would include: photos of former B'nai Brith leaders and members; photos of lodge meetings and significant social functions; souvenir books of dedication and celebration; invitations to events held in earlier years; copies of minutes of meetings conducted in past years containing important resolutions; reports of proceedings of B'nai

Herman Roodman

Brith conferences and conventions conducted prior to establishment of B'nai Brith Canada; names of all lodge past presidents and their years of service; names of fifty-year members in constituent lodges of B'nai Brith Canada and B'nai Brith commemorative items and memorabilia.

Inquiries or historical material should be directed to Herman Roodman, 2103 Chalmers Road, Ottawa, Ontario, K1H 6K4.

Power of One Voice

By Vera Klein, Chairman
Women's Division UJA

For the past few months, I have been living and breathing U.J.A. I am delighted, exhausted, excited, frustrated, but honestly happy and privileged to be chairing Women's Division U.J.A. Though I'm finding out that this endeavour is very "labour intensive" — mainly it is a labour of love.

I was fortunate to have participated in the May U.J.A. Mission to Venice and Israel. While I was in Israel, and for the first month after I returned, I was under the spell of Mission Fever. The euphoria hasn't totally left, though it has been tempered with the reality of work. The Mission was beyond my expectations — the emotions that I experienced about being Jewish and being with fellow Jews, in our other homeland, was an absolutely overwhelming experience for me. I don't think I've ever laughed or cried as much. It was like having an emotional catharsis. Each day was so full and intense. As an added bonus, there was a bond and camaraderie amongst our entire group, which was one of the highlights of the trip. I am fortunate to now have stories, anecdotes and vignettes to last a lifetime, as a result of this experience, and I will share some of them at a later date.

I am surrounded by a wonderful team of women. My Vice Chair is Roz Kimmel, longtime friend and colleague. The Chairwomen of Categories are Gail Victor and Ingrid Levitz. Gail and Ingrid preside over the Categories division, and to help them look after our very important "dollars" are the following: Ruth Berger and Susanah Dalen, both Past Chairwomen, who will head the Leadership category; Ellen Fathi; Roz Taller; Rae Goldstein and Julia Schwarz; Sheila Hartman and Myra Presser; Stephanie Gilbert, Roz Kimmel and Liz Schwartz; Pauline Hochberg and Anne Shmelzer. The Business and Professional Women have at their helm Evelyn Stone and Judith Stoler, with Natalie Stern and Marlene Levine as Co-ordinators of Canvassing. B+P's opener will take place on Thursday, September 14 and will feature Faye Schulan.

Our Opening Event Thursday, September 7, with keynote speaker Dr. Yaffa Eliach, has as its committee members: Myra Aronson (Main Event Chairman), Lynda Greenberg and Barbara Slipacoff. Laura Greenberg will be heading up our very important telephone committee.

Our Outreach arm, has attracted new committee members, with Charna Mittelman and Ellie Black as Chairpersons. Their Special Advisor is Past Chairman, Cally Kardash.

We will be doing an educational blitz, as Alyce Baker heads Education, a program at all the schools that are U.J.A. beneficiaries.

Our Canvasser Enrichment Retreat, was held on July 26th at Rae Goldstein's, with guest speaker Judy Scheininger from Toronto. This successful event was chaired by Roz Kimmel, Stephanie Gilbert and Barb Slipacoff (Co-ordinator of Functions).

The Golden Age Division is headed by the gracious Esther Baker.

Our Advisory Committee includes Beryl Ben Reuven, Naomi Cracower, Roberta Goldmaker and Dena Gosewich.

We take great pride in having as our Opening Event speaker Dr. Yaffa Eliach. She is renowned for her award winning book: "Hasidic Tales of the Holocaust". Her topic for the evening should have universal appeal to all factions of the community: "From the Shtetl to the Suburbs to Corporate Management". The event will take place on Thursday, September 7th, at 7:30 p.m., at the Agudath Israel Synagogue. Myra, Barbara and Lynda have a beautiful evening arranged for YOU, including Autumn Fantasy Desserts, R.S.V.P. by Sept. 1, to Pauline E. Pankowski at 232-7306.

Please remember that we are all volunteers, and that occasionally we slip up. If you want to become involved in Women's Division, as a canvasser or in any other role where you can share your talents with us, please call me at 232-5325, or Pauline E. Pankowski at the U.J.A. office, at 232-7306.

We have many more events coming up, and I will keep you posted in the next issue. In the meantime, Make My Day, and please join us on September 7th at our Opening Event!

New members welcome to join Negev Chapter

Negev Chapter of Hadassah-WIZO is holding its opening meeting on Monday, September 11.

The Chapter is actively seeking new members and welcomes all interested inquiries.

Negev has been an active chapter in Ottawa for the past 25 years. Its membership presently consists of 25 professional and business women between the ages of 40 and 55.

The members are active in all aspects of the community, but have a special feeling for Hadassah and identify with its aims. Anyone who is looking for a new challenge, a place to meet new people and to get involved, is invited to call (after 6:00 p.m.): Sharon Peebles 829-5655 — co-chairman membership; Clara Halasz 224-7022 — co-president; Lianne Freedman 592-1583 — co-president.

Guest speaker Dian Cohen, right, accepts a token of appreciation from Foundation Secretary Zelda Roodman, left, as hostess Rose Taylor, Women's Division chair, looks on.

Women's interest in Foundation heightened

The Women's Committee of the Ottawa Jewish Community Foundation recently hosted a luncheon for top endowment holders and prospective endowment purchasers featuring Dian Cohen, well known business and financial commentator of CTV's Canada A.M.

The luncheon took place at the home of Rose Taylor, chair of the Women's Division.

Over 60 women and one man chatted informally with the guest speaker before, during and after luncheon until she began her formal presentation.

Ms. Cohen captivated her audience with her warmth and charm. Had she not had to catch an early evening flight home, they would have been questioning her still!

As a result of the luncheon meeting one new fund was established and a number of women have indicated their interest and readiness to proceed further.

The Women's Division suspended activities during the summer months, but plan to resume in the fall.

Anyone interested in learning more about the endowment or insurance plans the Foundation has to offer should contact the office at 232-7306.

BB reps report positive results in meetings with Can/Is officials

In recent meetings in Israel with Israeli and Canadian officials, B'nai Brith Canada Institute for International Affairs Chairman Brian Morris and Government Relations Director Ian J. Kagedan discussed issues of concern to Israel and Canadian Jewry and explored methods of productive involvement by B'nai Brith Canada in matters concerning Israel.

Broad range

Meetings with Israeli officials covered a broad range of topics, and discussion was frank and open regarding Israel's concerns about its image in Canada and in the Canadian media.

"Through the course of our discussions it was apparent that there is an increasing recognition of what B'nai Brith has offered and can offer Israel in the process of hasbara," Mr. Morris said.

He added that the Israeli Foreign Ministry is "pleased with our involvement and commitment."

Kagedan characterized his meetings with senior staff at the Canadian embassy as "friendly and productive."

Among the issues discussed was the importance of Canadians' awareness of Israel's status as the only democracy in the region. This is the premise upon which the Government feels it is legitimate to voice its sometimes strong criticism of Israeli policy.

Mistaken conclusions

"In the absence of regular reminders by our officials of the fact of Israel's unique position as a democracy in a region hostile to democracy, and of Canada's commitment to Israel, criticism voiced will draw Canadians to negative and mistaken conclusions," Kagedan said.

One result is a subtle encouragement of anti-Semitic actions on the part of those predisposed in this direction.

Specific discussion took place as well regarding the attacks on Israel's human rights record at the UN, where Canada now holds a seat on the Security Council.

The thing I love most about cooking in the summer is the availability of fresh fruits and vegetables of all kinds. It's a perfect time to buy or pick lots of fresh berries and fruit, toss a few extra pies together, and freeze them for the fall or winter months when a fresh fruit pie is always welcome. Let's face it, once the kitchen is wall to wall flour, bits of pastry, and spilled sugar, isn't it worth your while to make 10 pies instead of just one?

Open Face Peach Pie

1-1/4 cups flour
2 Tsp. sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup (1 stick) unsalted butter, cut into small pieces
2-3 Tbsp. ice water
1 tsp. fresh lemon juice
3 lbs. unpeeled peaches, pitted and sliced
3/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup flour
2 Tbsp. butter, cut into small pieces
Peach ice cream (optional)
Combine flour, sugar and salt in processor. Cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse meal. With machine running, add enough water through feed tube drop by drop until dough just holds together; do not form a ball. Turn dough out onto plastic wrap. Press into disc. Wrap and chill at least 1 hour. (Can be prepared 3 days ahead.)

Coat a 10-inch pie pan generously with non-stick vegetable oil spray, or butter pan. Roll out dough on lightly floured surface to 1/8" thickness. Fit dough into prepared pan, trim, leaving 1-inch overhang. Fold overhang back into pan. Press edges with a fork. Refrigerate 1 hour.

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Line shell with foil or parchment, fill with pie weights or dry beans and bake 10 minutes. Remove foil and weights. Bake until golden brown, about 5 minutes. Reduce oven temperature to 400 degrees.

Arrange peaches in crust. Mix sugar and flour. Sprinkle over peaches. Dot with butter. Drizzle with lemon juice. Bake until peaches are tender, about 45 minutes. Serve with ice cream. 6 to 8 servings.

Grandma's Blueberry Pie

Crust for 2 crust 9" pie
4 cups blueberries
1 Tbsp. lemon juice
3/4 cup sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
3 Tbsp. cornstarch
1 Tbsp. butter

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Sprinkle lemon juice over blueberries. Combine sugar, cinnamon, nutmeg and cornstarch. Toss with blueberries. Line a 9" pie plate with pastry. Fill with blueberry mixture and dot with butter. Cover with top crust, seal edges well and prick top crust liberally with a fork.

Bake for 15 minutes, reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake for an additional 30-35 minutes. Freezes well.

Old Fashioned Bottom Crust Apple Pie

4 sticks butter (1 pound)
4 cups flour
1 Tbsp. plus 1 tsp. sugar
2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup ice water
2 Tbsp. butter
4 tart apples (MacIntosh, Granny Smith)
1/2 cup sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon
Pinch nutmeg
icing sugar

In processor, combine butter and dry ingredients. Process until resembles coarse meal. Add ice water, bit by bit, until the dough pulls away from sides of work bowl and forms a solid mass, about 1 minute. Remove dough from bowl and knead once or twice, on a floured surface. Divide into four, roll each out to a 12" circle. Fit 1 pastry circle into an 8" pie plate and chill for 20 minutes. (Freeze remaining 3 for future use.) Fill the crust with apple slices (apples peeled, cored and thinly sliced). Sprinkle with sugar and spices, dot with butter, and fold pastry edges over the apples. (The middle will not be covered by the pastry.) Bake for 45 minutes in preheated 375 degrees oven until apples are bubbly and crust is golden. Cool slightly and slide the pie out of the dish and onto a serving plate. Before serving sprinkle edges of crust with confectioner's sugar. Serve with whipped cream, if desired.

Overwhelming response to July memorial tea

Attendance at and contributions to the Sinai Chapter Hadassah-WIZO Tea held in memory of the late Sadie Shapero, July 16, evidenced the great esteem in which Sadie Shapero was held in the community.

Though not all the funds are in, arrangements are already in place for the proceeds to be sent, in Sadie's name, to the Cancer Research and Treatment Center at Asaf Harofe Hospital, Zerifin, Israel.

Guests were taken with a blue book, entitled Remembering Sadie. The pages within commenced with pre-written "I Remember Sadie..." and many people inscribed their own personal fond memories. Anyone wishing to add personal anecdotes or memories for inclusion in this book, is welcome to send a handwritten (or otherwise) message to Sarah Marcovitch, 20 Bertona St., Nepean, Ont., K2G 0W1 or call 226-6313.

The Memory Book, when completed, will also include notes received from persons who were unable to attend the tea; clippings from the Ottawa Jewish Bulletin, and other mementos.

When completed, the Sinai Chapter will present the book to Sadie's husband, Irving (Shap) Shapero, and family.

Annual UJA event

Public Service Division Dinner scheduled for Monday, Oct. 2

Mark Berlin, chairman of the Public Service Division of the 1990 United Jewish Appeal Campaign has announced that the Annual Public Service Dinner will be held on Monday, October 2, on Parliament Hill.

While final arrangements are still pending, Mr. Berlin is pleased to announce that the guest speaker for the evening will be the Honourable Gerry Weiner, Secretary of State and Minister of State (Multiculturalism and Citizenship).

Chairman for the forthcoming evening will be Stanley Hartt, Chief of Staff of the Prime Minister's office.

The Public Service Division includes over 750 members of the Jewish Community who are active members and retirees of the Public Service.

The Division is one of the major units of Ottawa's largest annual fund-raising Campaign. By contributing to the United Jewish Appeal, donors show their solidarity with the beneficiary agencies here in Ottawa, Canada and in Israel.

The Public Service Division, celebrating its 37th anniversary, has continued to grow both in numbers of donors participating and in the actual dollars raised.

The United Jewish Appeal is the fund-raising arm of the Jewish Community Council and uses the dollars it raises to support a number of local agencies including Hillel Academy, Ottawa Modern Jewish School, Ottawa Talmud Torah, Hillel Lodge, the Jewish Community Centre and J.S.U.-Hillel.

As well, there are several national agencies that benefit from the United Jewish Appeal including Canadian Jewish Congress and Jewish Immigrant Aid Services of Canada.

Of the total raised, 50% is for the local and national needs. The other 50% is allocated to Israel for social welfare needs. These include housing and schooling and the absorption of refugees. It is expected that a record number of Russian Jews will settle in Israel in 1990 and Israel depends on the Ottawa community's support and that of other communities to ensure that housing can be supplied for these newcomers.

A formal invitation will be mailed out shortly to all members of the Public Service, both active and retirees. In addition, there will be further information in the next several Bulletins.

For further information, contact Howard Goldberg at the United Jewish Appeal office 232-7306.

Faye Schulman will be the guest speaker at the opening meeting of the UJA Business and Professional Women's Division on Thursday, September 14 at the Embassy West Hotel, 1400 Carling Avenue.

The evening will commence with a reception at 5:15 p.m., followed by dinner at 6:15 p.m.

As a teenager 50 years ago, Faye Schulman lived in the comfort of her family home in a small town in eastern Poland, studying art and photography.

It was her knowledge of photography and some rudimentary medical skills that were to be the key to her survival of the murderous Nazi German occupation of her town and several years spent fighting with the underground in Poland.

Ms. Schulman will recount those experiences, using a collection of rare personal slides.

Schulman and her brother are the only members of her family who survived World War II. The rest of the family was killed in autumn 1942, along with most of the 2000 Jews in their community.

The 27 survivors of that massacre were spared only because of their talents as skilled professionals and tradesmen: cobbler, doctor, tailor.

Schulman's "value" was in her ability to develop photographs and to work other photographic equipment, making her privy to the photographs the German soldiers were collecting as part of their official record and as souvenirs of their

Weizmann works on solution to infertility

About a quarter of test-tube baby attempts result in the birth of a baby.

While it brings great joy to the fortunate couples who have a baby at last, for those who fail, it is yet another dashing of hopes.

One of the major puzzles is why so many of the eggs used in the treatment fail to live up to their promise. Israeli medical researchers Prof. Alex Tsafiriri and Ruth Mishkin of the Weizmann Institute of Science believe they are well on their way to identifying which eggs are likely to succeed.

In a study of 57 women who underwent infertility treatment at Hadassah Hospital in Jerusalem, the scientists found that successful pregnancies resulted from eggs which had lower amounts of a particular enzyme and blood serum protein in their follicles.

Therefore, if seven or eight eggs are collected, doctors would then be able to select the most promising one to boost a couple's chances of having children.

Now more women are being studied to see if the observations are repeated. If the statistical analysis of the initial study is confirmed, these simple biological tests may become the standard method for choosing the best possible embryo for transfer and thus increase the success of the test tube baby procedure.

exploits, an often harrowing assignment for her.

However, simply knowing a trade was not a guarantee of survival. In fact, Faye was supposed to teach a German "apprentice" who would, eventually, have been perfectly suited to replace her. What kept her alive was her eventual escape into the woods with Soviet partisans who attacked the local German garrison.

The life of a partisan fighter was very risky, and for especially so, Jews.

Faye, like most Jews, had grown up in urban settings and was quite unprepared for the rigors of rural life, let alone rural life on the run.

The code of the partisans was a strict one. And anti-Semitism was rife.

Schulman's wit and ability to improvise helped her to survive the harsh conditions of the next few years.

Once again, her photographic skills and equipment were valuable "currency" in the rough and ready society of the underground. Many of the slides she managed to preserve date back to that period.

She also called on the first aid expertise she had gleaned from her brother-in-law, a doctor, in the time before the war, fighting alongside the partisans and tending to their wounded.

Schulman survived the war and met and married a partisan fighter from another brigade. With an infant daughter in tow, the couple posed as displaced persons and made their way through a devastated Europe, to Germany.

For a year they applied to countries all around the world. Canada accepted them in spring 1947 — the start of a new chapter in their lives.

In 1948, Faye and her small family settled in Toronto, where she worked in a factory. Eventually, she and her husband built a small hardware business which they operated together for many years.

The couple raised two children and participated in the Jewish Community of their new-found home. She has been active for many years in the arts community, Jewish communal activities and Holocaust education programs.

All business and professional women are invited to attend. For further information, call Pauline E. Pankowski at 232-7306.

THE NEW ENVIRONMENTAL PARTNERS FUND.

TOGETHER, WE CAN MAKE A DIFFERENCE.

Created by the Government of Canada, the Partners Fund will make $50 million available over the next five years for projects to help local groups protect, preserve, enhance and restore our environment.

Anyone can get involved.

If you're a member of a service club, community organization, environmental group or a school or youth group, discuss the Partners Fund with your leaders. If you have a good idea, organize your own group and apply to the Partners Fund soon.

How much can a Partner receive?

Partners can receive up to $200,000.00 over three years, depending on the size of the project. In keeping with the idea of partnership, the federal contribution is limited to 50 per cent of the total cost.

Deserving students receive awards

Diplomas given at TTAS, Akiva graduation

The Talmud Torah Afternoon School and Akiva High School graduation ceremonies were held on Wednesday, June 14 at the Agudath Israel Synagogue.

Fourteen Talmud Torah students were graduated from the Hebrew School while 11 marked completion of the High School.

In addition to receiving their diplomas, Akiva High students received the Jewish Book of "Why" donated by Irene Schwartz, Dr. J. Goodman and Mrs. Sheila Tanner in memory of their parents and a "Akiva" sweatshirt from the Parents Association.

Bidding farewell to their school and teachers on behalf of their classmates, valedictorians Michal Cracower, in Yiddish and Lisa Kimmel, in Hebrew, thanked everyone for the solid education they received throughout the years.

Cracower expressed the desire for continued Yiddish studies within the parameters of the Ministry of Education and has since helped create a group that will continue to study Yiddish to obtain an OAC high school credit.

Books were presented to both students, donated by Herman and Zelda Roodman in memory of their parents, Louis and Freda Roodman and Max and Miriam Dworkin and sister and sister-in-law, Ann Silver.

This year awards were given to the top students in the Ivrit and Yiddish credit courses. Deserving students were: Lili Senman and Debbie Weissburger for Ivrit I and Jeff Pernica for Ivrit II.

All three students received books donated by Mrs. Deborah Stocker and family in memory of Mrs. Stocker's parents.

Deserving students in Yiddish I, II and III were: Alex Baker and Steven Farber (Yiddish I); Helen Braiter (Yiddish II) and Dalia Blumenthal (Yiddish III). These students received books donated by Mrs. Naomi Cracower and family in memory of her father.

The high school graduation culminated with the Holocaust Awards, donated by Valerie and Mendel Good, to Jonathan Beltzner for his outstanding work on this subject.

A medley of songs was sung by the Talmud Torah grade 6 students under the direction of teachers Brurya Weinfeld and Heidi Fine, accompanied by Shirley Schildkraut.

The Talmud Torah graduates then received proficiency and achievement awards along with diplomas and a gift book from the Goodman family.

The following students excelled in their particular areas of Ivrit and Judaica studies: Tiffila: Jonathan Boulakia and Lee Merovitz; Chumash: Paul Kaminsky and Spencer Rose; Ivrit: Sheila Cohen and Robin Vail; Dinim: Spencer Rose and Robin Vail; Israel: Sheila Cohen and Paul Kaminsky; History: Jonathan Boulakia and Lee Merovitz.

The Louis and Miriam Goldstein Award for proficiency in Hebrew Studies was awarded to Sheila Cohen by Mr. and Mrs. Goldstein.

The Esther Dubrow Solman Memorial Award for proficiency in Judaic Studies went to Jonathan Boulakia.

The Ann Silver Memorial Award for outstanding Achievement was presented to Michael Cherun and Jody Sadinsky.

The Parents Association award for contributions to school life was won by Sheila valedictorians in memory of The Baruch Kravetz

Memorial Award for top proficiency in both Hebrew and Judaic studies was awarded to Robin Vail.

Valedictorians Robin Vail and Lee Merovitz spoke on the importance of Jewish Education, and thanked the teachers and principal in Hebrew and English respectively. Norman Loeb presented books to the valedictorians in memory of his brother Dr. Henry Loeb.

The evening concluded with a musical recessional by Ruth Mendell, Amy Mendell and Shirley Schildkraut. A reception was tendered by the parents of the graduates and the Parents Association.

Auschwitz is uniquely Jewish symbol

By Frederick Krantz

Your July 28 editorial titled "The wrong place for quarrelling" deals with the recent Jewish protest against the continuing presence of a Carmelite convent on the Auschwitz death-camp site. It terms the issue a "quarrel" which "degenerated into open fighting...as angry Jewish protesters battled with Christian Polish workers."

The Auschwitz convent issue, however, is no mere quarrel and angry Jews did not battle with Polish workers, Christian or otherwise. The convent problem, now five years old, raises crucial questions about current attitudes toward the nature and meaning of the Holocaust. It deserves much closer and better-informed attention than your editorial gave it.

Indeed, insofar as the so-called battle was concerned, one wonders whether you read your own wire-service stories. The Reuter news agency quite clearly reported that the Jewish protesters, demonstrating against the Catholic Church's reneging on a two-year-old commitment to remove the convent from Auschwitz, had climbed a picket fence to try to engage the Carmelite nuns in peaceful dialogue. They were attacked by the Polish workers within and outside the convent building.

Buckets of water were first thrown on the protesters' heads — the New York Times ran the picture — from the building, which housed Zyklon-B extermination gas when over 2 million Jewish innocents were murdered at Auschwitz. They were then beaten and dragged from the site, to the accompaniment of cries of "Jews out" and "Off with their skullcaps" from a group of some 20 Poles, including policemen and a priest, who reportedly watched. (An official protest has been laid, and Solidarity, if not Wojciech Jaruzelski's government, is investigating the incident.)

More important, the Jewish protest should not be dismissed, as your editorial would have it, as a kind of petty quarrelling dwarfed by and demeaning the immense human tragedy of Auschwitz. Quite the reverse is true.

The protest in fact reminds us that fundamental issues about the Holocaust remain alive today, 44 years later. First, it is a reminder that Auschwitz was a key site in the Holocaust, which was the German campaign to exterminate all Jews because they were Jews.

The Germans committed many other terrible crimes, and non-Jews as well as Jews died at Auschwitz. But only the Jewish people were earmarked by the Nazis for complete destruction, and over 2 million of the 6 million who perished died at the death-camp in Poland, making it a key site and symbol of Jewish martyrdom.

Second, precisely this Jewish specificity of the site, and what it means to Jews everywhere, must be recognized and respected. What is wrong from a Jewish perspective about the placement and purpose of the Carmelite convent is its transformation of this site of a specific crime against the Jewish people, a genocide to which the Germans exposed no others, into the locus of a Christianized drama of universal human sin and redemption.

The Carmelites no doubt mean well. Christians — who were not, however, singled out as such — and other non-Jews died at Auschwitz, and the nuns are surely entitled to their Christian vision. What is at issue is that their vision must be acted upon directly on this site of unimaginable Jewish suffering (and with a recently-erected 20-m-high crucifix outside the building).

This unfortunate "universalizing" blindness to Jewish suffering and sensibility is an old story. It demonstrates, sadly, that the Carmelites and their supporters — as well as, if differently, the louts who attacked the Jewish protesters, and the bystanders who egged them on — have learned little from the Holocaust.

Auschwitz had its "deep roots," as your editorial notes, "in the dark and violent side of Christian history." It was also made possible by Western indifference, and its operation was facilitated for over three years because the West did nothing to impede the slaughter (neither bombing the railroad lines into the camp, nor the camp itself, as repeatedly requested by Jewish groups and doomed camp inmates at the time).

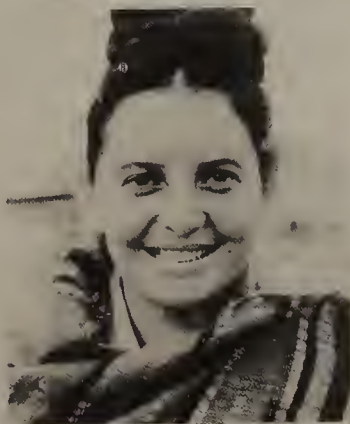

To ignore this is, in this time of increasing Holocaust denial and revisionism, to distort the meaning of Auschwitz. Universalizing the Holocaust, or Christianizing it as the Carmelites seek to do, violates history and empties Auschwitz of its essential Jewish content and symbolism. Precisely such emptying is one of the Holocaust revisionists' themes.

Paradoxically, no universal lessons (if such there are) can be drawn from this greatest crime of our century if its Jewish specificity is ignored. This is what the convent issue is about. Reducing the issue to a petty quarrel shows us how much, 44 years later, we still have to learn about what you term "the terrible lessons" the Holocaust teaches.

Canadian team placed third

Ottawa athletes excell at Israel Maccabiah

By Greg Richards
JCC Phys. Ed. Director
Ottawa area athletes fared very well at the 13th Maccabiah games held recently in Israel. On the track, Alan Azuelos continued his winning ways, earning a gold medal in the 1500m, and bronze in the 800m races. Alan, still 15 years of age, raced against some of the best 15 and 16 year old Jewish athletes from around the world — and mounted the winners' podium twice.

"It was JCC Director Greg Richards who got Alan into running," remarked his mother Yvonne Azuelos. "He spotted Alan's potential as an 11-year-old and entered him in his first meet."

Canadian Junior Maccabiah Team

Alan Azuelos (right) mounts the winners' stand to receive gold in the 1500 m.

In women's gymnastics, Lianne Liang turned in an excellent performance, finishing 8th out of a field of 20. "I was very pleased with her routines," said Coach Penny Fyfe. "She worked hard to overcome an injury sustained 45 days prior to the games. She hit all her routines, and, considering the level of competition, 8th is an excellent finish for Lianne."

Lianne plans to continue training towards the Maccabi Youth Games next year in Detroit.

Colonel Ed Fitch, a resident of Ottawa since last summer, won a silver in the sport pistol, and bronze in rapid fire and free pistol shooting events.

Colonel Fitch describes the Games as a terrific experience. "... (I was) very impressed with the organization of the Games. The opening ceremonies at Ramat Gan, with over 45,000 spectators and 4,000 athletes, was one of the largest Jewish sporting events ever."

Canada's golf team, under the captaincy of John Holzman, won silver behind the U.S.A. who took home the gold. Billy Holzman, a veteran of three Maccabiah games, placed sixth overall to help the Canadian team, which placed five out of six players in the top twenty.

On the softball diamond, local JMSL player Murray Osterer helped in the battle against the U.S. softball squad for the gold medal. In the end, the U.S. prevailed with a narrow 1-0 decision. Canada brought home the silver medal.

Swimmer Alana Safran, competing in her first Israel Maccabiah Games, had a very good meet, placing 4th in the 100 butterfly and 5th in the 200 freestyle and 200 butterfly. All around, Alana improved her times in each event. "I met a lot of people and had a lot of fun," said Alana. "The Games were a terrific experience."

Overall, the Canadian team placed third, increasing their medal count by 20% over 1985. A full report will be available from Maccabi Canada shortly.

Mark September 19 on your calendar. The JCC Board of Directors has planned a reception in honour of the Ottawa area athletes who participated in the Israel Maccabiah Games. This event represents an opportunity for the Ottawa Jewish Community to recognize and support these hardworking athletes.

Learn Israeli dancing

Israeli Folkdancing starts again on September 12. It will take place every Tuesday evening in the gymnasium of the Jewish Community Campus, 881 Broadview. It is open to everyone, whether experienced Israeli dancers or "first timers."

Perhaps you've never done Israeli dancing and you are shy about learning — even though it looks like fun. This program is your chance to learn, in a relaxed setting and under skilled instructors.

Teaching for beginners will take place every Tuesday from 7:15-8:00 p.m. and will continue into 1990. The emphasis will be on teaching easy dances to build up the beginner's confidence and familiarize him or her with the steps, sequences and patterns. As you feel more comfortable, you can, at your own pace, move on to trying more challenging dances.

After 8:00 p.m., the regular Israeli folkdancing request evenings will continue. We dance until 10:15 p.m. every Tuesday night. It's a lot of fun, as the many people who've been going regularly will tell you.

Join us on September 12, and give Israeli folkdancing a try.

The Burning Bush

By Barnett Litvinoff
Collins Publishers, 493 pages,
$39.95 (cloth)

Surprising and provocative conclusions about the nature of the beast, anti-Semitism, based largely on the thesis of developing nationalisms, lead author, Barnett Litvinoff, to face the 21st century with a certain amount of skepticism. As the world becomes increasingly one multicultural body, where do the loyalties for any nation, let alone the chosen people, lie? "With their God," may be easy to say but a hard maxim to live by.

This is an historical study which attempts to debate some of the harsh realities of anti-Semitism in a world that is rapidly breaking down borders rather than erecting them.

Litvinoff, who was born in the East End of London of Russian immigrant parentage, served as a private soldier during the Second World War in France until Dunkirk and then in the Middle East. Captured during the Rommel advance in the Western Desert, he spent three years as a prisoner of war in Italy and Germany.

From Roman times to the present century the Jewish people have survived because of their "apart of yet apart from" existence within the nations where they lived.

Barnett Litvinoff

Jean Paul Sartre argues that without anti-Semitism in the host cultures, the Jews would have floundered.

Litvinoff paints a different picture. He repudiates much of the conjecture surrounding anti-Semitism and points out that the dynamism of the Jewish people lies more in their voluntary acceptance of the chosen people role than their persecuted one.

The Burning Bush, an apt title for the acceptance of the initial monotheistic premise and the subsequent mosaic code persisting for millennia, is the recurring theme in Litvinoff's debate.

Agudath Israel's November tour to Israel is open to community

The Agudath Israel Congregation is planning a special pilgrimage to Israel, November 6-20, led by the congregation's program director and hazzan sheini, Danny Friedman.

The 13-night tour will include accommodations at some of the most luxurious hotels in Jerusalem, Tel Aviv and the Galilee, as well as a three-day dream "vacation from the vacation" finale in sunny Eilat.

American born Danny Friedman came to Ottawa from Jerusalem where, as a partner in the Archaeological Seminar, he designed and implemented educational programs on the archaeology of Israel.

A government licensed tour guide, over the years he has shared his enthusiasm for the Holy Land with thousands of tourists, students and pilgrims. Many Ottawans enjoyed his Jerusalem lecture series this past winter.

In Friedman's educated opinion, November is an ideal time to visit Israel.

"The weather is not too hot, the winter rains are a few weeks away, the rates are lower, and Eilat is at its best," he says.

The tour is opened to members of the congregation as well as the community at large at $2295. Canadian — which includes the round trip flight to Eilat. Response to date has been enthusiastic and space is limited. For further information contact Danny at the synagogue (728-3501) or at home (729-5699).

Israel not included on new Michelin M-E map

NEW YORK — The World Zionist Organization-American Section has expressed chagrin and bewilderment over Michelin's latest map of the Mideast which omits the entire State of Israel and lists Israel's major cities — such as Jerusalem, Tel Aviv, Haifa and the entire West Bank — as being part of the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan.

"I have just returned from a visit to the State of Israel — my passport can attest to that — but according to the latest Michelin map I visited Jordan..." quipped Bernice Tannenbaum, Chairman of the WZO-AS.

"One can only wonder which Mideast state the U.N. is condemning every now and then and with which state Egypt has signed a peace treaty ten years ago, since according to Michlin's new revisionist geography Israel is nowhere to be found.

"What the Arabs did not succeed in doing to Israel in five wars Michelin does in one edition of its maps — disclaiming Israel's existence!"

Mrs. Tannenbaum charged that the well-known publishing house of maps and travel books, which is based in Paris, outdid the Arab countries themselves, which for the most part have come to recognize Israel as a permanent entity in the area.

"This is an attempt to be more papal than the Pope, a naked attempt to rewrite geography and borders in order to promote the sale of the map in the Arab world," Mrs. Tannenbaum said, calling on Michelin to recall its map and reissue a corrected version.

IDF brass muzzles media interviews

TEL AVIV (JTA) — Israel Defense Force Chief of Staff Dan Shomron gave orders recently that senior IDF commanders, general staff major generals and chief officers of the various military corps may not grant interviews to the news media until further notice, Al Hamishmar has reported.

Shomron explained his decision saying that many military figures have recently given interviews and that he wishes to lower the profile of the IDF in the media.

In addition, Shomron said he will not allow corps commanders to appear during the coming months at the traditional news conferences held on commemorative days for the various military corps.

'I learned that I was Jewish through maternal lineage'

Growing up Jewish in Ottawa - not knowing

By Hyh Prince

Growing up Jewish in Ottawa and not knowing it! Oh, I knew I was in Ottawa, and I knew I was growing up. However, while I was growing up in Ottawa, what I did not know was that I was Jewish. But now that I do know, I can look back on those years through Jewish eyes.

Upon reflection, four memories stand out as significant moments: the first time I heard the term, 'Jew'; my first encounter with a Jew; the day I was informed that I was a Jew; and, that culminating moment in which I claimed and proclaimed my Jewishness.

I first heard the term, 'Jew,' when I was six years old. I was attending Catholic elementary school where it was taught that Jews did not believe that the Messiah had come. Even in those tender years, I recall being plagued by confusion and doubt: 'If the Messiah had come, was it not unlikely that Jews would deny him when it was they who were expecting him?'

I was thirteen years old when I first saw her. I was sitting in a cafe sipping coffee, when she entered. Her unusual appearance, a profound beauty, made me note her presence. But a few minutes passed when I heard a young man shouting and laughing, "You're a Jew; you're a Jew!" I looked about. It was the same woman I had taken notice of that he was scoffing. In tears, she ran out of the cafe. Since I had been curiously attracted to her, I felt involved in her present plight. And so I followed her outside. I apologized for her unfortunate situation, and enquired as to her well-being. She spoke angrily at me as if it were I who was to blame for her hurt. She shouted, "I am not a Jew. I am an Israeli." Although I doubted her differentiation of the two terms, I remained silent. Somehow I knew in my heart that she was indeed a Jew, and that left me wondering, "What could be so terrible about being a Jew that would compel her to deny it?"

Many years passed, and with each passing year I came to empathize more and more with the Israeli's denial of her faith. For so too did I deny mine. To pursue the matter one final time, I decided to enter university studies in Catholic theology. Surely, I thought, after years of concentrated studies on matters of faith, I would come to know, to understand, and to believe. As yet, I did not know that in my very denial of the Christian faith were sprouting the seeds of my Jewish heritage.

During the years I pursued Catholic studies it was necessary to think about Judaism, for Judaism is considered its mother religion. The approach to Judaism was in terms of a static entity, and there was talk about sacrifices and rituals of old. But even such talk caused me to reminisce. I would recall that at home there had been the occasional mention that my maternal grandmother was Jewish. And I recalled once hearing it said that my mother also was Jewish. But not unlike my studies, the language concerning Jewish matters was spoken in the past tense. As for me, I never thought in terms of these facts affecting my present.

And then it happened! I learned that Jewish lineage is maternal. My grandmother was a Jew; my mother was a Jew; and, it followed that so too was I a Jew. The thought of being a Jew astounded me. It left me in a daze, and I walked about saying to myself, "I am a Jew; I am a Jew." Yes, I am a Jew, but what was it I should do about it?

My final course in Catholic theology was a compulsory one for completion of the degree program. It was called, 'World Religions,' and required that I go to the place of prayer of a religion other than Catholic to report on the symbols utilized in worship liturgy. For purposes of this research I chose to go to a synagogue.

I entered the synagogue and I looked around. Apart from the Menorah alit in the corner and Hebrew letters etched in the stained glass, I noted that it is not really all that different from the Christian churches I had attended in my youth. But, this is not a church, I reminded myself. I am in a synagogue. So, I continued, this is where Jews worship — on Saturday. How very foreign to me, and yet it feels so comforting to be here. It is as if I am being welcomed to a moment that had long awaited my arrival.

Services began. And as I prayed, the sanctuary became as my mother's womb to me. It is as if for the first time I will lay eyes upon my mother's face. It is as if for the first time my mother will hold me in her arms and suckle me. I felt as if I alone existed, embraced in the arms of eternity.

For one who stands before eternity, time ceases to exist; for within eternity is contained the past, present, and future, and they are as one. I looked around me. The people around me, they are Jews. I wondered, 'what is it like to be a Jew?' But, how absurd. How is it I wonder what it is like to be a Jew, when I am a Jew? I am one with these people. We are one people, the offspring of one father, Abraham. My history is included in the history of Jewry. The history of Jewry contains my past, present, and future. This is the eternity within which I now stand. It is in this moment that was culminated the meaning of my existence — my Jewishness.

When the Torah was taken out from behind the curtain, I recognized that I was witness to a wondrous event. The Torah approaches, and it is as if a long dark tunnel is constructed between us, like a birth canal that I must struggle through as must my mother bear in labour to assist me. And the pangs of birth are excruciating for both the body and the soul. For like an unborn child who fears the loss of existence as he now knows it within the protective walls of the uterus, so now do I stand afraid that should I reach out I might, by some unknown power, be consumed out of existence as I now know it. And, yet, life beckons me onward welcoming me to taste this Jewishness.

I reach out, and with my siddur, I touch the Torah... My mother feels the final pang of labour and I am taken from her womb. As the cord of life is severed I am afraid, for I am certain death shall claim me. There is a moment of nothingness...then, suddenly, my body is filled with its first breath of new life. I live — a new being — totally independent from she who gave life to me, and yet at the same time, totally dependent upon He Who is Life. I remove the prayer book from the Torah and bestow upon it a kiss — a sacred kiss that seals and bonds the love between Creator and creature. And my soul proclaims, "I am a Jew, as is my mother a Jew, and as is her mother a Jew. Blessed be the L-rd our G-d, Ruler of the Universe, who has made me a Jew."

It is said that to every thing there is a season and a time to every purpose under the heaven. I ask what purpose is there to be found in finding out that I was growing up Jewish after I had grown up? The answer came and once known seemed simple. The living out of Torah is a limitless encounter with life. Therefore, insofar as my Jewishness is concerned, I must never presume to have reached maturation. That is to say, even now, aged as I am, I am still growing up Jewish in Ottawa with but one radical difference prevailing. Now I am growing up Jewish in Ottawa and knowing it!

Manley's skates among items being auctioned

Imagine skating down the Rideau Canal in a pair of Elizabeth Manley's skates and wearing either a Mats Naslund or Guy Lafleur hockey sweater!

These are just a sample of the many items to be auctioned at the 'Sports and Memorabilia Auction' on Wednesday, September 20 in the Grand Salon of the Embassy West Hotel, 1400 Carling Ave.

The event is being organized by the Beth Shalom Men's Club and Parliament Lodge B'nai Brith 2159. Viewing begins at 5:30 p.m. The auction is scheduled to commence at 6:30 p.m. A hard working committee has spent months obtaining a variety of sports memorabilia and equipment for auction. Topping the list of items will be a pair of tickets to this year's Grey Cup Game, including return air fare to Toronto, via City Express.

Other items available include ski boots, tennis rackets and a bowling ball; autographed pictures of favorite sports personalities, autographed hockey sticks; Bryn Smith's bat autographed by his teammates; a Steve Bauer bicycle; a set of golf clubs; and an Olympic flag which was flown at the '88 Calgary Olympics. These and many more items will be auctioned off, with the proceeds going to charitable work.

For those who enjoy travelling, two tickets via KLM to Amsterdam will be raffled off. Tickets will be available for $5.00.

The guest host for the evening will be J.J. Clarke, CJOH TV's popular weatherman. Well known personalities, such as Ken 'The General' Grant will be helping out as auctioneers.

Refreshments will be served throughout the evening.

Tickets for the auction are available for $5.00, and can be obtained at Canada Trust in the Pinecrest Mall or by calling Leon Silver (738-1183) or Irving Kulik (726-0637).

Pollard doubts wisdom of spying for Israel

TEL AVIV, (JTA) — Charging that Israel abandoned him after his arrest, convicted spy Jonathan Pollard now says he has doubts whether it was wise for him and his wife to risk their freedom when they spied on the United States on behalf of Israel.

In a letter to Amnon Dror, the Israeli representative of the U.S.-based Committee to Free the Pollards, Pollard writes that he no longer is sure whether he wants to live in Israel when he completes his jail sentence.

The former Navy intelligence analyst was convicted of passing classified documents to the Israelis in 1986 and was sentenced to a life sentence at a maximum security prison in Marion, Ill. He is eligible for parole in 1996.

His wife, Anne, was convicted of being an accessory to her husband's crime after the fact, and is serving to concurrent five-year sentences in a separate facility.

Pollard said Israeli Embassy officials in Washington had not only refused to grant him and his wife asylum when he faced arrest, but that they even cooperated with U.S. authorities in their capture.

"The government of Israel — in no way do I mean the citizens of Israel — has betrayed Anne and me, and in doing so, I believe, has betrayed the people of Israel," Pollard writes.

He also blames Israel for doing nothing to help bring to an end what he alleges is daily harassment of his wife, who suffers from a rare gastrointestinal disorder among other ailments.

He said she is suffering "hellish pain."

Ottawa group pays weekend visit to Brooklyn Lubavitch community

By Edward L. Cohen

On Thursday evening, June 1 (28 Iyar), a group from Ottawa, including many children went by bus to Crown Heights, Brooklyn to visit the Lubavitch community.

The trip was under the sponsorship of the Jewish Youth Library headed by Dr. Yosif Caytak and Ottawa's Chabad House under the leadership of Rabbi Pesach Sperlin.

The group arrived Friday morning to a reception of great food and spiritual rejuvenation.

Speakers over the weekend included Rabbi Gershon Shusterman, director of the Hebrew Academy, Long Beach, CA and Dr. Yehudah Landes from Palo Alto, the first licensed marriage, family, and child counsellor in the state of California.

Rabbi Shusterman talked about the commandment "Honor thy father and thy mother."

Pointing out "honor" not "love" is the key word in the commandment, he said we should discipline our children, and not give them everything they want. We should hope then that they would respect us, Rabbi Shusterman said, and this respect would turn into love.

On the subject of marriage, he stated that the "ring" was like the Torah and Mt. Sinai like the marriage because on Shavuot, 3301 years ago, Hashem and the Jewish nation were united.

Dr. Landes spoke about the commandment to "Observe the Sabbath." He said that the Jews were distinct because they were the only ones who could take 26 hours off from pressures and business practices — in other words, to shut out the world and relax. He also provided counselling regarding marriage and parental problems.

On Friday afternoon, the group visited Boro Park where there are many good Kosher restaurants as well as Eichler's book store, where one can pick up a variety of items not available in Ottawa. Such items are also available at Drimmer's in Crown Heights.

On Saturday afternoon the Lubavitcher Rebbe, Rabbi M.M. Schneerson, gave his weekly farbrengen in Yiddish. About 2500 people always come to listen.

On Sunday, each member of the pegisha goes in to see the Rebbe. Our group was delayed for one hour because Ariel Sharon arrived unexpectedly and entered just before us.

A trip from Ottawa to Crown Heights is usually made twice yearly. For information call 729-7712.

Gala opening planned for unique exhibition

Montrealer Andrea M. Bronfman is the motivating force behind a unique exhibition chronicling the Jewish Canadian experience scheduled to open in the spring of 1990.

The gala preview of 'A Coat of Many Colours' will take place on March 31, 1990 at the Canadian Museum of Civilization in Hull, Quebec.

Mrs. Bronfman is the founding and present national co-chairman of Canadian Friends of Beth Hatefutsoth, an organization dedicated to the education and promotion of public awareness about the history of Jewish communities throughout the world. Through her deep commitment to this cause, she initiated the concept of an exhibition focussing on the Jewish Canadian experience over the past two centuries.

Andrea Bronfman

An active committee from the area has been formed, headed by Albert V. Benoit, M.V.O. of Alben Consultants and Edie Koranyi, a well-known member of the Ottawa Jewish community.
